

Workplace Innovation Wednesdays

You can make a real difference to performance and engagement

We were completely blown away by the positive response to our Workplace Innovation workshop in Porto on Saturday – well over 60 companies representing every size and sector, all committed to discovering effective ways of improving performance and engagement.

It demonstrated yet again that workplace innovation can transform organisations whatever their size, sector or nationality. We know, because we've helped so many different types of organisation achieve major improvements and innovations.

We invited two great companies from Scotland to take part in the workshop – both having been involved in our workplace innovation programme for Scottish Enterprise.
